Sinner's Prayer

Heavenly Father, I know that I have sinned against you and that my sins separate me from you. I am truly sorry. I now want to turn away from my past sinful life and turn to you for forgiveness. Please forgive me, and help me avoid sinning again. I believe that your son, Jesus Christ, died for my sins, was resurrected from the dead, is alive, and hears my prayer. I invite Jesus to become the Lord of my life, to rule and reign in my heart from this day forward. Please send your Holy Spirit to help me obey You, and to do Your will for the rest of my life. In Jesus' name I pray, Amen.

STATEMENT OF FAITH

1. We believe that there is one God, eternally existent in three Persons: Father, Son and Holy Spirit.
2. We believe that the Bible is inspired by the Holy Spirit and is the infallible and authoritative Word of God.
3. We believe that mankind was created in the image of God, and because of Adam and Eve's sin, and the continuing sin of every member of the human race, we deserve nothing but death and eternal damnation.
4. We believe in the deity and humanity of our Lord Jesus Christ, in His virgin birth, in His sinless life, in His miracles, in His vicarious and atoning sacrificial death, in His bodily resurrection, in His ascension to the Father, and in His soon coming return in power and glory.
5. We believe that salvation consists in the forgiveness of sins, the imputation of Christ's righteousness, and the gift of eternal life received by faith and not by works.
6. We believe in the present ministry of the Holy Spirit by whose indwelling we are called and empowered to live a godly life, and spread the good news of Jesus Christ.
7. We believe the true Church is composed of all believers in Christ, regardless of denominational affiliation.

Hello readers! Thank you for picking up this issue of The Outreacher. For those who read my editorial last month we are coming closer to the reason for my health issue! I had a biopsy of my right wrist area with the stitches still remaining. My dermatologist said it's hives! "Take an antihistamine daily and if you need to take a second one, do it." I have my second, much smaller HB (refer to last month for that l-o-n-g word) on my right hand that may need drained. Dermatology appointment soon. I keep thanking God that we're getting this Outreacher completed prior to another serious outbreak! Spiritual, as well as medical testing continue.

Several months ago, while taking an exit ramp that seemed like a 360 circle; a crazy thought rushed through my mind faster than my car was going! You see, I have this little cow on my dashboard. You know how Jeeps have ducks? Well, Subarus have cows. Moo moo Subaru we say. Oh, I know...silly but it's all in good fun.

After a very intense week filled with ups and downs, I found myself careening this exit ramp a little too fast and my moo moo cow rolled and rolled and rolled to the point that it was upright perfectly and I thought, "this is how my entire week was". There were several occasions that I just didn't know how to fix things. But God knew! As the week drew to a close, all was fine. As I rolled around that exit ramp to church, I knew all was fine.

²⁵ Who of you by worrying can add a single hour to your life? ²⁶ Since you cannot do this very little thing, why do you worry about the rest? ²⁷ "Consider how the wild flowers grow. They do not labor or spin. Yet I tell you, not even Solomon in all his splendor was dressed like one of these. ²⁸ If that is how God clothes the grass of the field, which is here today, and tomorrow is thrown into the fire, how much more will he clothe you—you of little faith! Luke 12:25-27

Here we are! Beginning the twenty-second year of The Outreacher! YAY! Shouting out to all the advertisers, churches, community organizations, distribution points, writers, volunteers, Christy Bloom and YOU, the reader! Thank you for allowing me to do what I love! Organizing, selling advertising and meeting the most wonderful people ever! My life has truly been enriched because of you!

Happy Father's Day, Dad!

A CHRISTIAN BOOK REVIEW

If the Tree Could Speak

The Story of the Cross That Saw It All

Written by Tim Tebow & Illustrated by Rommel Ruiz

Book Review by Marcia Bryan
Uhrichsville, OH

I could hardly wait to get my hands on this New York Times Bestseller since its release in February of this year! It was said to give a unique and emotional perspective of Jesus' crucifixion and after reading it, I believe it far surpassed that description. There were several times as I was reading that I had to just stop for a moment to dwell on that thought, and sometimes to even hold back my tears. So, what's so special about this book by Tim Tebow?

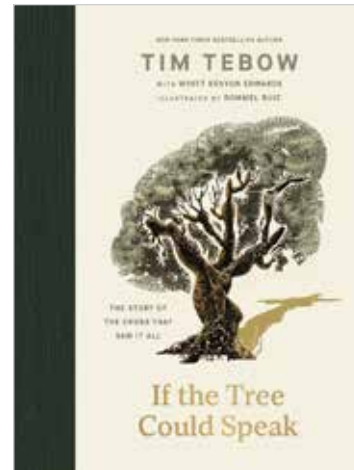

This story is told from the viewpoint of the tree that became the cross Jesus was crucified on. Although it is full of touching illustrations and is written in the narrative of rhyme, its simplistic nature is nothing but thought provoking. While it can be read with children, its true genre is Christian Living/Inspirational.

The Introduction on page 3 states, "The wooden cross - once a brutal instrument of public torture, humiliation, and execution for Rome's worst criminals - was the closest thing to Jesus during His crucifixion ... It carried His weight. It felt His blood. It heard His breath. Now imagine, what if the cross had a voice?" This is the core theme of this inspirational story.

The story begins with a tree growing wild and free while longing for a purpose one day. When the time comes for it to be cut down, it's excited and full of hope that it will soon be used in a very special way. It sees Jesus being honored as he is riding into town on a donkey and when it hears that he is a carpenter, it wonders if this carpenter might one day use his skills to make him into a gorgeous royal throne. However, something completely unexpected takes place and the tree is stripped, torn in two, and made into a cross. Made into a tool of torture and shame! He's saddened that this is his destiny, and it is shortly after that he realizes the carpenter he saw honored only days before was the one to be placed upon him. Can you imagine how the tree felt as it watched this bizarre turn of events?

This tree goes on to witness the pain of the crucifixion, but also its mercy and so much more. And in the end, it finds its true purpose ... "how ironic that I - the cross - once a symbol of pain, would now be a symbol of hope in Jesus' name. (Tebow, pg. 117) I loved how the book caused me to slow down and think about my own purpose and how I can bring honor to Jesus. How often do we think that we know what great purpose God has for us only to find out we were not even close to seeing the true beauty in what He had planned for us?

The book's real message is that Jesus gave His life on that tree and He's still the One who's giving life today. "He himself bore our sins in his body on the tree, that we might die to sin ... by his wounds you have been healed." I Peter 2:24 ESV (Tebow, pg. 121)

Tim Tebow is a speaker, entrepreneur, and college football analyst for ESPN, and author of five New York Times bestsellers. Prior to that he was a NFL player and Heisman winner. Tebow is also known for his work with the Tim Tebow Foundation which is a ministry focused on Anti-Human Trafficking and Child Exploitation. He is married to his wife Demi-Leigh Tebow and they live in Florida with their daughter.

MY STORY: How God Helped Me Heal from BURNOUT as a Teen

Elizabeth Morris
Age 16
Uhrichsville, OH

Let me be real: I never thought I'd be the kind of person who burned out. I always pushed myself—trying to get good grades, show up for friends, and make my parents proud. I said yes to everything, thinking I could handle it. But somewhere along the way, it all started to pile up. School felt like a mountain I couldn't climb. I was tired all the time, snapping at people, and just wanted to disappear into my phone or my bed and not deal with anyone or anything. Even my faith started to feel distant—I wondered if God really cared about what I was going through.

I finally hit a wall one night after I broke down crying for no real reason. I felt empty, like I had nothing left to give. That was when I realized I couldn't keep pretending everything was okay. I remember just sitting in my room, not even sure what to pray, but I whispered, "God, I can't do this anymore."

That moment changed everything—not because all my problems disappeared, but because I felt God's presence for the first time in a long while. It was like He was saying, "I see you. I'm here. You don't have to do this alone."

One of the biggest ways God helped me was through my sister, Gracie. She noticed something was off before anyone else did. Gracie would just sit with me, listen, and let me vent when I was overwhelmed. She never made me feel judged or like my feelings were too much. Sometimes, she'd pray with me or just remind me that it was okay to feel what I was feeling. Her support made all the difference—she helped me believe that things could get better.

I also reached out to a couple of pastors from my church. At first, I was nervous to talk about what I was going through, but they were so understanding. They listened, prayed for me, and shared Bible verses that gave me hope. My pastors reminded me that God's love isn't based on how much I do; it's about who I am as His child. They encouraged me to take breaks, set healthy boundaries, and focus on what really matters.

I started being honest with God, telling Him when I was exhausted or scared. I took time to just sit quietly, listen to worship music, or write down what I was feeling. It wasn't always easy, and sometimes I still felt overwhelmed, but I stopped pretending for God and for myself.

I also realized it's okay to ask for help, and that doesn't make me weak. Learning to say no was tough at first, but with Gracie, my pastors, and God guiding me, I slowly started letting go of things I didn't need to carry. I realized that my worth wasn't in my grades or how busy I was, but in being God's child. Verses like Jeremiah 29:11 For I know the plans I have for you... and Psalm 139:14 I am fearfully and wonderfully made became reminders that God's love for me doesn't depend on how much I do.

If you're reading this and you feel burnt out, I want you to know you're not alone. God isn't disappointed in you—He's right there with you, ready to help you heal, one step at a time. Don't be afraid to reach out to someone you trust, whether it's a sibling like Gracie, a pastor, or a friend. Let God use the people around you to remind you of His love. I'm still learning every day, but now I know that with God, I don't have to carry everything on my own. There's hope and healing ahead, and you can find it too.

Dr. Lyman O. Baier, Sr
Walnut Creek, OH

Pastor Nathan Elliott, February 2026 Outreacher, reminds us that Satan made it through 2026 and the 21st Century is growing darker and evil is getting stronger. But who are all those men and women appearing in the big mirror I am looking at? "Is that you, Nathan?" "Yes, Lyman" he says. "It's me." ...and here is what Pastor Elliott wrote in the February issue of The Outreacher: "The time has come for us, the recreated ones, those who have been spiritually reborn to arise, to stand in the image that dwells within our spirit, that Christlikeness and represent Him for all the world to see. Yes, let your light shine!"

I'm looking into a broader mirror, Nathan. Let me tell everyone about all these men and women I see in this large mirror I'm gazing into. They are from different tribes, different nations, they look different and sound different but they shine the same light, the one from the City on the hill. Jesus's light is the one that cannot be hidden. Each of them knows the way to the Father. I, Lyman, am older than you, Nathan, but your words carry the voice of Jesus, Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart; and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light. Matt. 11:28-30 KJV

The men and women in this large mirror are stouthearted, able to carry the fight to the front of God's bright light. Those who cannot be bought, whose word is their bond, who put character above wealth, who will not lose their individuality in a crowd, who will make no compromise with wrong, who do not say they will do it because everybody does it, who are not ashamed or afraid to stand for truth when it is unpopular or can say "no" with emphasis, although all the rest of the world says "yes." These men and women, including me, are not perfect and fall short every day but we hold that light high to reflect the light of Jesus within us!

Nathan is right! We are in a spiritual war and both the OT prophets and Jesus himself, according to Matt 24:1-12 KJV, tells us it will get worse as time goes on. Nathan has called us to shine our lights brightly. If we have surrendered our lives to God and believe His Son, Jesus, died for our sins and was resurrected, we must shine our light of faith brightly and transform us to bear good fruit. We must disciple those who do not yet know about salvation through Jesus Christ. Rise up you stouthearted men and women! Put on your armor and... Shine, Jesus, Shine!!

To Lapse or Not to Lapse

Doug Frautschy
Dover, OH

The Christian Church has never existed without persecution. It varies by time, place, and severity; and this was true in the early church just as it is today. In fact, by pure numbers, more Christians are persecuted today than ever before. This should not surprise us, Jesus said in John 15:20, Remember the word that I said unto you, The servant is not greater than his lord. If they have persecuted me, they will also persecute you.

The first Christians were persecuted by the Jews as is documented in Acts. Because Judaism was a historical religion, the Jews obtained some limited freedom to practice their religion from Rome. However, Jewish leaders treated Christianity as a new and different religion. After the Jews were expelled from Rome in 49AD, and after they rebelled in Jerusalem which caused the destruction of the Temple in 70AD, Christians preferred to be treated as a separate group from the Jews.

One might think that persecution would prevent the church from growing. But as we see in Acts, persecution forced Christians to flee to other areas where they spread the Gospel. Another reason for the growth of the Church was that the Gospel was a message of hope to people of all races, genders, and societal status, There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither slave nor free, there is no male and female, for you are all one in Christ Jesus. Galatians 3:28. That had to be an earth-shattering message of hope to someone like a slave or a woman. Another factor was the example of the Christians who were willing to die for their beliefs. You don't die for your religious beliefs unless you are fully convinced of their truth. Tertullian famously stated, The blood of the martyrs is the seed of the Church. Even though persecution tended to make the Church grow, there were very few Christians at the time that saw persecution as a good thing, and Christians generally did everything they could to convince the Romans to stop persecuting them.

From the beginning of Christianity until the Edict of Milan in 313AD, Christians went through various periods of persecution. However, the two worst periods of persecution were under the rule of Emperors Decius in 249, and Diocletian in 303. In spite of the persecution, the church grew to the point that by the time of the reign of Constantine in 315AD, Christians made up an estimated 5-10% of the population ruled by Rome. During the worst persecutions, all persons under Roman rule were required to offer a sacrifice to the Emperor or the Roman gods. This meant very little to the non-Christian population. To the Christian, however, it meant that they were rejecting Jesus as the only Lord of their life and replacing Him with the Emperor or the Roman gods. This was clearly idolatry and condemned by the Scriptures and the Church. Those who remained faithful under torture were called "Confessors." Whosoever therefore shall confess me before men, him will I confess also before my Father which is in heaven. But whosoever shall deny me before men, him will I also deny before my Father which is in heaven. Matthew 10:32-33. Those who gave in were called the "Lapsed."

So what was the Christian to do? Refuse to sacrifice to the Emperor or the gods like Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah did in Daniel Chapter 3? This usually ended in loss of possessions, torture, physical impairment, and often death. Should the Christian run and hide? Bribe the government official? Get a forged certificate on the black market saying they made the sacrifice when they really didn't? Make the sacrifice and not mean it? After all, Paul says in I Corinthians 8, We know that an idol is nothing in the world and that there is no other God but one. Or should the Christian make the sacrifice, avoid the persecution and leave the church until the persecution passes? After all, God is a forgiving God. What would you do? Next month we'll see how the Church struggled to resolve this issue.

A fictional story

Natalie had no reason to celebrate Father's Day since her so-called father ran out before he could count her fingers and toes the day she was born. It seemed he'd changed his mind about being a dad and had more pressing matters at a casino out west, which left Natalie with a mere shadow, the absence of someone lingering in the background of her twenty-seven years. She'd grown accustomed to the void and hardly noticed until this particular day arrived, which left her trying to outrun the shadow.

She decided to treat it as an ordinary Sunday, stopping for a bagel and coffee before heading to the lake to watch the sunrise and contemplate life as life awakened through the serenading of sparrows and goldfinches. With a canopy of fog hovering over the water, she convinced herself it was a crisp, autumn morning. Not June and certainly not Father's Day.

She tried inspecting her picnic table in the predawn light before sitting to face the water. She dug into the paper bag for her bagel, cringing as she shattered the serenity.

"You're making an awful lot of noise. Are you trying to scare the fish away?"

She spun around. A tiny man carrying a fishing pole and wearing a hat hobbled toward her.

"Sorry. I thought I was alone."

"Nope." He tipped his pole toward the blue heron in the water. "That tiptoeing fish thief beat us both here. I guess the early bird catches the fish." He chuckled but stopped to sniff the air. "Did you bring coffee?"

Natalie lifted the large cup to show him.

"Thanks! Don't mind if I do," he said, reaching for the coffee. "I forgot my thermos."

Before she could object, the fisherman slowly took a seat and a swig of her hazelnut coffee.

"So, tell me, young lady. Did you come here to spy on my favorite fishing spot?"

"No, sir. I come here every..." She hesitated, not wanting to share the routine of her personal life with a perfect stranger. "I come here to enjoy the peace."

"You can call me Marvin, and I sure understand finding peace here. Our heavenly Father knew what He was doing when He gave us lakes like this and all the different song birds, even that stalking fish thief out there is a blessing. I suppose."

Natalie felt the shadow sneaking up on her, staking its claim. She lifted her chin and squared her shoulders. "I don't have a father. On earth or in heaven."

"Sure, you do. You just don't know Him yet."

"My father left before I was born, so I don't want to know—"

"I'm not talking about him." Marvin cast his gaze to the water. "It's true. Some of us grow up without a daddy teaching us how to drive or even how to fish. But we all have a heavenly Father who created us and teaches us things all the time." Marvin paused. "Look around. He's teaching you how tender He is and how He wants to spend time with you. You've probably been coming here for a while, searching for that peace. Well, who do you think put that longing in your heart?"

Natalie couldn't understand why her eyes burned. She wasn't angry, which was usually the reason she cried.

"Look there." Marvin pointed at a tree branch overhead. "Can you see that sparrow? God knows all about that little guy. He cares about him, too. So, if He cares about a tiny bird, how much more does He care about you? He didn't create you and then change His mind, saying, 'Nah. Throw that one back. I don't want her,' like He caught the wrong fish. You're His child, and He never leaves His child to wander alone in the dark, even if it feels like that some days."

Natalie's bottom lip quivered. "Like today?"

"You know, I usually only fish Saturday mornings, but I woke me up today and knew I was supposed to come to the lake. I brought my pole, thinking I would be casting a line into the water. Hmm. It seems I've done that after all, doesn't it?" Marvin stood, rubbing the small of his back.

"You're not leaving, are you?" she asked.

"Not a chance. I've got all day for you, young lady."

And just as Marvin settled in by her side, the sunrise split the sky wide open, reflecting such a brilliant light on the water that there was no place for shadows to hide.

He Will Pull Me Back

MaKya Hendrix
Age 16
Dennison, OH

I feel the distance in my chest, like prayers don't rise the way they should, my voice gets lost in all the noise, in things I know aren't truly good.

I wander far in quiet ways, not always loud, but still I stray, caught in the pull of lesser things, and slowly drift a bit each day.

But deep inside, a steady hope, a whisper I can't push away, reminds me He has never left, even when I lose my way.

I know His love is stronger still than every fault and every fall, His hands reach out beyond my doubt, He hasn't given up at all.

So even here, I turn my heart, though I feel far, I choose to stay, because I know He'll pull me back, and lead me closer day by day.

What Do You See?

Marilyn Borgia
New Philadelphia, OH

"Well, look there! He's back from his latest jaunt into the hills!"

My brothers, Nathan and Dan, had been loafing on the bench in front of our house, pretending to study. Nathan muttered a low reply to Dan's exclamation.

"He looks even more odd than he did the last time he came back to town. I wonder where he finds those rags he wears."

I dropped the bread dough I'd been kneading onto the floured surface and quickly stepped to the doorway to join them. The subject of their rude exchange was ambling far down the road. Thankfully, he hadn't been near enough to hear the insults.

"Why do you two pick on him so?" I scolded. "What difference does it make to you whether he wears rough clothing or fine silk?"

"Come on, Libby, you know he's always been peculiar with all that long, messy hair and those big, bugged-out eyes. He stares at people as though he can look right through them. He always cocks his head as though he's listening to someone no one else can hear."

"You two only notice those things that make him different," I told them, "but I remember how kind he always was when I was a child. Do you recall that time when I cut my hand while I was preparing dinner? He was walking by and heard me crying. He cleaned and wrapped my wound and then waited with me until Mother got back from the market." I hoped my gentle reprimand might stay their criticism, but they were far from finished.

"He's a know-it-all," Nathan continued. "In class, he'd challenge the teachers, as though he knew the lessons better than they did. He's always been different." He snorted. "I heard that his parents were really old when he was born; maybe that's why he acts so strangely."

Nathan mussed his hair until it stood on end, then opened his mouth in an ugly grimace and waved his arms in the air. Dan cackled at his cruel, mocking antics.

"There were rumors that his father wasn't quite right in the head, either," Dan considered, "so it's no wonder that he's so we Tears stung my eyes as my brothers continued to verbally attack the man who had always treated me with respect and kindness. They criticized his disheveled appearance, his tendency to keep to himself, and even the strange foods he ate.

I stalked back into the house and resumed my work. As my hands coaxed the soft dough into a smooth, fragrant loaf, my thoughts settled peacefully. My friend's blunt outspokenness was offensive to my brothers, yet to me, he appeared honest and sincere. Where my brothers saw restlessness and discord, I sensed a righteous purpose. To them, he was odd; to me, he seemed special, chosen by God to be destined for greatness. Well, I would let my brothers have their opinions. As for me, I would watch and wait. I trusted that, in due time, God would reveal His plans for my dear friend John.

⁷ As these went their way, Jesus began to say to the multitudes concerning John, "What did you go out into the wilderness to see? A reed shaken by the wind?" ⁸ But what did you go out to see? A man in soft clothing? Behold, those who wear soft clothing are in kings' houses. ⁹ But why did you go out? To see a prophet? Yes, I tell you, and much more than a prophet. ¹⁰ For this is he, of whom it is written, 'Behold, I send my messenger before your face, who will prepare your way before you.' ¹¹ Most certainly I tell you, among those who are born of women there has not arisen anyone greater than John the Baptizer; yet he who is least in the Kingdom of Heaven is greater than he. PSALM 8^{TLB}

¹ O Lord our God, the majesty and glory of your name fills all the earth and overflows the heavens. ² You have taught the little children to praise you perfectly. May their example shame and silence your enemies!

³ When I look up into the night skies and see the work of your fingers—the moon and the stars you have made— ⁴ I cannot understand how you can bother with mere puny man, to pay any attention to him!

⁵ And yet you have made him only a little lower than the angels and placed a crown of glory and honor upon his head.

⁶ You have put him in charge of everything you made; everything is put under his authority:

⁷ all sheep and oxen, and wild animals too,

⁸ the birds and fish, and all the life in the sea.

⁹ O Jehovah, our Lord, the majesty and glory of your name fills the earth.

A Birthday Blessing for June The Moon in June

When I was young, I heard a song
About the Moon in June,
And that is what inspired me
To write this lunar tune.

When it is full, the Moon's bright light
Will drive away the dark of night,
Then it will fade away to drift into the day,
And in the morn will be reborn,
And once again will grow,
At night its light to show.

God made the Moon to be a sign,
To mark for us the march of time,
And show to fallen man Salvation's plan.

We were created full and bright,
But sin came in, and then its night;
But in the Gospel morn, we are then reborn;
When sin is washed away,
And night is turned to day.

As the Moon reflects the light
Of the golden Sun,
When reborn our lives reflect
The light of the God's own Son.

Wesley Vaughn
Dover, OH

*Another June has come your way:
Have a Blessed Birthday!*

*And God made two great lights;
the greater light to rule the day,
and the lesser light to rule the night:
he made the stars also.*

The Banker's Daughter

Mary Ann Lauber
Dover, OH

Television Dads in the 60's provided little insight as to how other Dads were raising their families. There were all types.... Archie Bunker, Mike Brady, Darrin Stephens, Ben Cartwright, Andy Griffith and Bill Cosby. But, not a single one of them were like my Dad, my Dad was different.

Born at home in northwest Ohio, Richard Thomas Lauber was one of five children born to Richard and Mary Etta Lauber. He began working at age 14 in a greenhouse where his love of all things gardening, especially flowers and tomatoes, became a hobby for lunchtime and weekends. Next, he learned to drywall with his favorite uncle. He was never afraid of hard work and learned new skills quickly.

During high school, he was an excellent student and star of the basketball team. Always a leader, he was paired off with Barbara Christy, another smart and popular student; their families were friends for decades. My Dad was ornery and one night, along with a few other buddies, decided to "borrow" a few outhouses and strategically placed them around their small town. One four-seater outhouse completely blocked the entrance to the bank downtown with a sign that read, "Place your deposits here."

After high school, he was proud to serve his country in Germany and traveled all over Europe during his leave. Upon his return, he enrolled at Ohio State University where a certain brunette caught his eye. He and my Mom decided not to wait on degrees, married and began a family. My Dad worked for a baby food company in Columbus before returning to his new bride's hometown of Millersburg, Ohio, where his father-in-law, an astute businessman, saw potential in him to run a small bank and recommended him.

In his mid 20's and without a college degree, my Dad caught the attention of a large bank in Massillon, Ohio and was named President. He earned the respect of the community as a leader and built the bank quickly. By then, he and my mother had four young children - three boys and a girl - and relocated to Stark County. He was named to the Massillon Community Hospital Board of Directors, Kent State Stark Board of Directors and was taking banking classes. He always made time on Sundays to be sure we were in church and enjoyed brunch afterwards.

My Dad has always been a proud American. He insisted the biggest American flag that could be found be flown on top of the bank building, above a smaller Massillon Tiger flag during football season. My Dad, a second-generation army veteran, wore an enameled American flag lapel pin on his suit jacket every day. He met with other esteemed business leaders at lunch where strategies were discussed and implemented for local business and the Massillon Tiger Booster Club.

Growing up, us four children knew the rules. No drinking, no smoking, church on Sunday and stay out of trouble. It was easy for three of us. My brother, Mark, followed in my Dad's footsteps and did ornery stunts, like changing the church bells at the Church of the Lakes to play Christmas Music in July at midnight.

My Dad's goal in life had been to provide seed money for each of his four children to own their own businesses. I think we've made him proud. And, in turn, we've been proud to be his children. He's led by example, knowing he instilled in each of us, a faith in God, treat people well and give back to our communities.

In 2004, our family suffered a tremendous loss when both Mom and Mark died within seven weeks. Dad was heartbroken. We worried about him. Not that he wasn't self-sufficient, but he was used to having a helpmate for 45 years. It wasn't long until his former 2nd grade classmate, Barb Christy, who had lost her spouse, was introduced to our family and they married. All part of God's plan.

They lived in southwest Florida until four years ago until returning to their beloved hometown of Archbold, Ohio. A place they both cherish, with extended family and friends surrounding them.

Today, Dad and Barb are 91 years old and doing the best they can to maintain their independence. Health issues keep cropping up, but their smiles return when they reminisce about the "good old days" growing up together. Dad broke his hip in October and has been battling back ever since. He's no quitter.

Train up a child in the way he should go; even when he is old he will not depart from it.

PROVERBS 22:6

My Dad continues to be different from other Dads. A highly successful, brilliant and benevolent man, he always leaves things better than he found them. He continues to seek ways to make a difference in the lives of his family and in his community.

My Dad is set in his ways and doesn't like to ask for help. He can be more than a little stubborn. Lord, I could use a little help with him. Happy Father's Day!

1 PETER 3:15 KJV

Paula Hixenbaugh
New Philadelphia, OH

Rita sat on the bench looking for an opportunity to share her testimony with anyone who would listen. She lived alone and no longer drove, so riding the senior van to the mall and grocery store was her way of meeting people.

One day, after purchasing a few items at the IGA, she sat on the bench waiting for her ride. A younger woman sat down beside her smiling.

"Groceries are so high, I can barely afford meat for my family," Rita reached out her hand and introduced herself. "My name is Rita. I understand the stress of trying to feed your family. It wasn't so long ago that I needed meat. I was unaware of my need until one morning, before I went to work, I looked into the freezer. It was bare."

"Were you unable to purchase any meat?" the lady asked.

"I was on a tight budget, but this time, I just stood at the freezer and prayed. I said, 'God, I need some meat. Thank you for providing.'"

The woman smiled in disbelief. "How did that work out?" she said laughing.

"Well," Rita said, "I have experienced God's provision before, so I wasn't afraid to ask."

"I thought God was far away, cracking a whip when we do wrong. At least, that was what I have been told," the lady responded.

"Oh, no, God is personal and He cares about every detail of our lives," Rita stated.

"Do you mean He is as close as you and I are?" the lady asked earnestly.

"Yes, even though you cannot see Him with your human eyes. When I was a little girl, I asked Jesus to forgive me of my sins and be my Savior. He lives in my heart and guides me each day."

The young lady was silent as if in deep thought. Finally, with a serious look on her face, she asked, "What happened with your need for meat?"

Rita was excited. She knew, at that moment, God put this young lady in her path. Rita continued, "When I arrived home that evening, there was a message on my answering machine stating that one of the young ladies at our church was in the area. She often visited the shut-ins from our church. I was surprised that she wanted to stop by. Soon there was a knock at my door and my five-year-old came running. When I opened the door, there she stood with three bags of meat. I was overjoyed that God told her to bring this to me. She did not know that I was in need, only God knew."

With a tear in her eye, the young lady grabbed Rita's hand and stated, "I want to know this personal God. Is that possible for me? I have done a lot of bad things in my life." Rita wept.

"You can know the Savior right now in this place. I will pray with you."

"I know I need Him, the young lady said as she bowed her head."

Right there on the bench, where everyone could see, the young lady received Jesus into her heart and life.

Now, while sitting in the senior van, Rita realized the importance of being ready to give an account of her faith wherever she was.

Heaven was Missing an Angel then the Lord Found Her and Took Her Home

Jim Pryor
Canal Fulton, OH

March 31st, 2026, at 7am my beautiful bride of 48 years went home to be with our Lord. I know she is in Heaven. No more tears, no more pain. However, for me I begin an earthly journey of deep sorrow, fear and anxiety and that is because I am a man who loved his wife with a lifetime of tenderness and true passion. The pain that I feel now is like no other I have ever felt. Although, I know the truth of salvation right now it's of little consolation. I want to be with her now.

This caused me to wonder what does God say about the suffering of those left behind? God in His infinite wisdom has given us a passage about a man who has lost everything. Job. He suffered every physical affliction, he lost his wife, his children, his home but yet he remained faithful.

I guess the lesson Job teaches us is despite deep sorrow trust in the Lord with all of your heart and lean not on your own understanding. He loves us and as promised He will never leave us. My pain will never leave me until I see her again. This doesn't make the pain of my loss any easier, but it does give me hope.

For those of you who are suffering the pain of loss as a brother in Christ I am praying for you that the Lord will give you strength and peace.

Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths.

Some people say that food is the “sixth” love language. It is a huge part of our social structure that has been around for centuries. When people celebrate something, like a birthday, anniversary, new job, goal achieved, we bring out the food. Sometimes it’s a whole meal, sometimes just a small treat. Your favorite ice cream stand opens for the summer and you can already taste how they make the best soft serve or flavor of ice cream. Your birthday comes around and it’s your favorite cake or dessert. A meal for a friend grieving the loss of a loved one. A special treat for a mother who has had a bad day. Cooking or baking for someone is a clear sign of love.

There is time and effort in the process, and it can display wanting to take care of someone. When we do prepare something for someone, or have guests coming over, we often ask, “What is your favorite dessert? Do you like mushrooms? Any allergies?”. It all shows that we care about the other person and what they will enjoy when they sit down at the table.

In Nehemiah 8:10 Then he said unto them, Go your way, eat the fat, and drink the sweet, and send portions unto him for whom nothing is prepared; for this day is holy unto our Lord: neither be ye grieved; for the joy of Jehovah is your strength. ASV. God wants us to celebrate; He allows it and encourages it in the right manner. Is love a real ingredient? I say that the answer is yes! How can you explain your mom’s chocolate chip cookies tasting better than any other you have tried? Or a favorite meal you have from your growing up years that nothing will compare to? It’s because of the love in those foods; in the way they were prepared and the heart behind them.

M.F.K Fisher is quoted “Sharing food with another human being is an intimate act that should not be indulged in lightly”. Food creates a relationship between those sharing it. It brings community to us. Acts 2:46-47 And day by day, continuing steadfastly with one accord in the temple, and breaking bread at home, they took their food with gladness and singleness of heart, praising God, and having favor with all the people. And the Lord added to them day by day those that were saved. ASV. In a world that rushes through everything from coffee to lunch, we are reminded to take our time and savor joining together over food. So often we miss the blessings God has because we hurry through a meal, or miss the urging of the Spirit to prepare food for someone because we are too busy or going too fast to really listen.

With June being strawberry season, I would love to share a favorite recipe for muffins from a cookbook my dear friend Sara gave me for Christmas in 2000. These would be so sweet tucked in a basket with a little card to share with a friend. Enjoy!

Fresh Strawberry Muffins

Combine 3 cups flour, 2 cups sugar, 1 teaspoon each baking powder, salt, and cinnamon. In another bowl combine 4 eggs beaten, 1 ¼ cups oil, and 2 ½ cups fresh strawberries slightly mashed. Blend together, do not overbeat. Spoon into greased muffin tins, bake at 400 degrees for 25 minutes. Makes 2 dozen.

JACK'S HOUSE OF HOPE

The Friends of the Homeless Shelter and Jack's House of Hope in New Philadelphia help to provide a safe and reliable place for Tuscarawas County residents who have no reliable shelter. Our goal is to assist individuals in achieving stable, safe, and reliable housing to anyone experiencing any type of housing insecurity.

We have a volunteer program which helps our daily operations. We are currently in need of individuals, service organizations, and churches who can provide a nightly meal on a monthly basis or can volunteer their time in our offices. Anyone interested in providing a meal, or volunteering their time can contact our volunteer coordinator, Maria Rila, at 330-602-6100 for more information.

We also rely on donations from the community to help keep our shelter programs running.

Please consider donating today by visiting www.fothtusc.org

The 3rd Tuesday monthly 530-7pm at Park Place Youth Center inside Tuscora Park. "SnackChat" enjoy a free meal, free family activities, and have access to hygiene, cleaning, and self-care items. Open to all. 330-339-2504

TCHD has partnered with the Heart of Ohio Diaper Bank to help distribute diapers to Ohio residents. Each family is eligible to receive 2 packs of diapers per child, 1 pack of wipes, and 1 tampon or pad pack each month (month is not based on number of days just on month served). Specialty diapers, such as pull-ups, swim diapers, and adult diapers, are also available. This is not an income-based program for eligibility. For more information contact Abigale Raber (araber@tchdnow.org or 330-343-5555 ext. 1110).

HICKS INDUSTRIAL ROOFING

78 YEARS

4 GENERATIONS

1 NAME

0 COMPROMISES

... From Roofer in '82, Sales-manager in '88, General Manager in '94, and owner in '99, Mike Hicks led the transformation of Hicks from an asphalt roofer to single-ply, became Ohio's first Drug-Free roofing contractor, to our knowledge THE ONLY roofing contractor ever nominated for the Governor's Award for Excellence in Workplace Safety- x2, Firestone Master Contractor, one of just 13 Fibertite Platinum Contractors and many other awards. Mike has been invited 2x to speak at the International Roof Expo and was asked to be one of the original 12 "Roofing Influencers" by a leading industry advocacy group. But family, church, community and charity continue to be the reasons we do what we do, and trust is the single most valuable thing our customers give us, and as our 4th Generation prepares to carry the torch...
